

Secure shopping

Before you make a purchase online, ensure that the site's checkout page is secure.

When you are at the point of entering your credit or debit card details, a small padlock should appear in the bottom of your browser window. If you can't see this go to View, then check Status Bar. Even if you can see it this is not always sufficient evidence.

Look at the secure site's URL (address). The URL should start with https instead of http if the page is secure.

Website of the Month

Monday 15th October 2007 is National Personal Safety Day. This is an annual event run by The Suzy Lamplugh Trust designed to raise awareness of the practical solutions you can use to protect yourself and your family.

The above link takes you directly to the National Personal Safety Day page, but from here you can navigate to any area of interest within the site, whether it's safety whilst travelling overseas or what kind of personal alarm to buy.

The Campaigns and Community link is a particularly useful area. As well as many practical tips there are two games for children to help teach them how to deal with various circumstances. "Smart Kids" is aimed at Primary school age children and "Be Street Wize" is aimed at slightly older children.
