

croots farm shop & kitchen

Opening June 27th

Steve Croot the well known herb grower and owner of Field House Foods based at Duffield will be making the move into retail sales, when he and his wife Kay open their new farm shop at the family farm in June. The shop will be home to a butchery department, delicatessen, there will be fresh produce, as well as freshly baked bread and a whole host of other fresh foods.

'The Kitchen' as it is called, will serve breakfasts, light lunches and afternoon teas with delicious home made cakes and beverages available all day. For breakfast, whether you're after a bacon bap or a full fry up, all the sausages and bacon will come from the shop's butchery department. All the meat in the butchery will be sourced locally and by next year the farm will be producing its own lamb again.

Steve explains that the shop will support as many local producers as it can with plans to take vegetables from South Derbyshire Growers, milk and dairy products from Peak District Dairies, mushrooms from the Derbyshire Mushroom Company and many other local products such as honey, jams, chutney, eggs, ice cream, not to mention their own range of award winning oils and vinegars which are produced on the farm. Whilst there are plenty of herbs grown on the farm, Steve aims to broaden the range of home grown salads and vegetables to supply the shop and so is busy experimenting at the moment to see which grows the best! Steve will also supply fresh eggs from his ever growing number of hens

The shop will also stock a range of organic foods, from fresh produce to bread and from pulses to chocolate! There will be a small range of wines and speciality local beers and even a range of gift ideas. Something for everyone!

So why not go along and visit them, sit and have a cup of tea and admire the views. You may even get to see one of the new Shire Horse foals that have been born recently (pictured).

You will find Croots Farm Shop and Kitchen on the Wirksworth Road, just off the main A6 in Duffield. For further details see their website.
