

Make Me Smile

Warning Labels on Products...

Manufacturers of consumer products have to be liberal with the warning labels these days, lest they get sued. The warnings that follow are quite simply amazing ... and they're genuine!

"Do not use if you cannot see clearly to read the information in the information booklet." -- In the information booklet.

"Caution: The contents of this bottle should not be fed to fish." -- On a bottle of shampoo for dogs.

"Do not use in shower." -- On a hair dryer.

"Do not use while sleeping." -- On a hair dryer.

"Shin pads cannot protect any part of the body they do not cover." -- On a pair of shin guards made for bicyclists.

"Do not drive with sunshield in place." -- On a cardboard sunshield that keeps the sun off the dashboard.

"Do not eat toner." -- On a toner cartridge for a laser printer.

"Not intended for highway use." -- On a 13-inch wheel on a wheelbarrow.

"This product is not to be used in bathrooms." -- On a bathroom heater.

"May irritate eyes." -- On a can of self-defence pepper spray.

"Warning: May contain small parts." -- On a frisbee.

"Do not use orally." -- On a toilet bowl cleaning brush.

"Not suitable for children aged 36 months or less." -- On a birthday card for a 1 year old.

"Do not use for drying pets." -- In the manual for a microwave oven.

"Warning: Do not climb inside this bag and zip it up. Doing so will cause injury and death." -- A label inside a protective bag (for fragile objects), which measures 15cm by 15cm by 12cm.

"Caution: Remove infant before folding for storage." -- On a portable stroller.

"Do not drive car or operate machinery." -- On children's cough medicine.

"For indoor or outdoor use only." -- On a string of Christmas lights.

"Wearing of this garment does not enable you to fly." -- On a child sized Superman costume.

"Do not turn upside down." -- On the bottom of a supermarket dessert box.

"Warning: May contain nuts." -- On a package of peanuts.

"Warning: May cause drowsiness." -- On a bottle of sleeping pills.

"Not dishwasher safe." -- On a remote control for a TV.

"Safe for use around pets." -- On a box of Cat Litter.