

THE SPANKER, Nether Heage Under New Ownership

The new owners at The Spanker, Nether Heage are no strangers to running successful restaurants and public houses in the area. In addition to The Spanker, Andrew West-Hunt and his wife Fiona also own The Spotted Cow in Holbrook.

Andrew has taken on the role of Head Chef at The Spanker and is assisted by Wayne Ledger, formerly Head Chef at The Bear, Alderwasley. Since the recent takeover, Andrew and Fiona have made some magnificent changes to the interior of this popular establishment. Contemporary furnishings sit alongside some beautiful traditional features to ensure that The Spanker retains its cosy charm and character whilst tastefully embracing a more modern feel.

Andrew comments: "We are delighted to have taken over at The Spanker and look forward to meeting customers, old and new and invite them to come along and sample our extensive menu and wine list." Andrew continues: "We pride ourselves on providing meals cooked using fresh, local produce – all home-made in our kitchen."

The Spanker offers a family/function room which is available for functions out of hours.
